EXPLANATORY:

In order that those connected with the Kentucky Irish American might share in the enjoyment of Thanksgiving day it was necessary that our columns be closed earlier than usual, which will explain the omission of much news that reached the office after Wednesday night.

PRIEST FOUNDED CHICAGO.

News comes from what appears an authentic source that it has been discovered that Chicago is 134 years older than present-day histories now record. The Chicago and Evanston Historical Societies held a joint meeting Tuesday night for the purpose of discussing and celebrating the discovery that was made by Frank R. Grover, Vice President of the Evanston society. Father Pierre Francois Pinet, a French priest, is credited with founding the city in 1669-134 years before the supposed birth of the city in 1803. It will be most surprising if effort is not made by narrow-minded persons to deprive the pioneer priest of the credit that this discovery gives him. There are few spots in this country that priests did not visit either before or at the time of their first settlement. They certainly blazed the way for civilization.

HAVE WE SUCH?

Look at the condition of the church in France today. Her religious order are driven out, the law of Separation passed, monasteries confiscated and sold, Catholics everywhere persecuted, what remains? Within fortnight, in every probability, the very churches in which the faithful worship will be seized and closed by government. How has all this come about? asks the Catholic Sun. A French exchange came to us with a pastoral by Charles, Bishop of Versailles, and it reveals the unsuspected reason. For years, says the Bishop, the daily press has been full of lies with regard to things Catholic. For years it has dared to assail the church, at first insidiously, then openly. If the church placed an infidel or immoral book upon the Index, at once the daily press praised that book and made it popular. If the church condemned an opinion as dangerous, the press lauded that very opinion as the one which all men ought to hold. The effect of this misdirection is now woefully apparent, says the Bishop. Catholics read this press and gradually imbibed its viewpoint. "Today bad books are in thousands of Catholic homes, bad journals are read and believed, our young men are indifferent to the faith, our young women have grown frivolous, our workmen revolutionary and the voice of the church goes unheard." Is not the case peculiarly sad? A Catholic press exists, but naturally it is without influence. The people were not urged to foster the church's doctrine. In conclusion the Bishop declares that the Catholic Church supports the evil press is nothing less than a traitor to the church. "Words, but who will deny the truth? It remains to ask if we have any such indirect traitors here in the United States?"

IRISH INDUSTRIES.

In the last issue of the Dundalk Democrat there appears an article on a most important subject, Irish Industries, in which many of our readers feel deep interest and for whom we extract the following portions: "It is pleasant to notice the cordial union of all classes, creeds and sections of Irishmen in Dublin this week on the Irish industrial revival platform. Everyone in Ireland who has any capacity for thought, or any interest in the welfare of the country, has come to recognize by this time that if the rapid decay of the nation is to be averted, we must revive our old industries and create new ones. The only industry that can be said to have flourished in Ireland for at least a century past is the industry of the emigration agent, who annually deported the materials on which Irish industries ought to have been built and sustained. Mr. T. P. Gill told us the other day that while Ireland imported $17,000,000 worth annually of manufactured goods, she exports only one-half that quantity, and that while she exported $1,000,000 worth of food stuffs, she imported no less than $1,000,000 worth. This is altogether a serious matter for Irishmen in position in the country to pass upon. We are all equally interested in the prosperity of our country—Catholic and Protestant and Presbyterian, Nationalist and Unionist, Fenian and Orangeman, landlord and tenant, capitalist and worker. If the country is to continue to go to the dogs at the rate that it has been going for a considerable time, we will all go to the dogs with it. Fortunately, as we have said, all classes appear to have begun to recognize this."

Pointing out to the people their duty the article continues: "Let our people, rich and poor, of all classes and sects, commence earnestly to support those few Irish industries we have. Let the conductors of those industries meet the people half way, and adopt modern business methods in the manufacture and marketing of their goods. Let us show that in this matter of Irish manufacture we make no distinctions of political or religious creed, and that an alien capitalist who will put his money into the development of Irish industry will receive Irish support in proportion as he employs Irish labor. The Irish industrial conference will doubtless do a great deal of good. It will stimulate our manufacturers to renewed exertions; more important still, it will awaken every thoughtful man and woman in this country to the vital necessity for doing his or her part—be it great or small—to keep the bone and sinew of the country at home, instead of having it steadily passing away from our shores to enrich other countries."

John J. Barry, editor of the New Haven Echo, is being urged to become a candidate for the Senatorship in the district composed of Nelson, Spencer, and Shelby counties, made vacant by the resignation of Hon. Ben Johnson, elected to Congress. Our friend Barry may not be much of a politician, but everybody recognizes him as a man of principle and sound sense, and the people could make no better selection. He knows the needs of city and country and would strive earnestly for the best interest of his constituents.

Riding horseback astride has become fashionable among English society women. Lady Castlereagh and the Duchess of Manchester set the example, and it is a common sight in Rotten Row to see London girls and matrons riding in the same style as their men folk. Women who would ride astride until this period were looked upon as a high class of freak.

The last issue of the Frankfort Call made its appearance Tuesday, that paper having been merged with the State Journal, which will continue under the management of Editor Walton, one of the best known and most energetic newspaper men in the State. The retirement of the Call leaves the State Journal a wider and much better field.

Rev. Dr. E. L. Powell continues in the limelight of politics and has succeeded in making himself persona non grata with Gov. Beckham. This is a season of the year when the minister should be looking after the spiritual, not political, welfare of his people. The wise preacher will not drag politics into his pulpit.

President Roosevelt and party returned Monday from their long trip, much impressed with Panama and Porto Rico, the journey being greatly enjoyed. The President would say nothing about the Panama canal, but will deal with that subject in a special message to Congress.

Monsignor John Vaughan, the distinguished prelate now touring this country, while pleased and astonished with what he has seen, heard and read, expressed himself most impressed with the thought of the wonderful future in store for the United States.

GEORGIA SPLIT BISCUIT.

Pare and boil three potatoes until perfectly done. While still hot mash them fine, add a cupful of blended lard and butter, two eggs beaten separately and a yeast cake dissolved in a pint of warm milk; then flour enough to make a stiff sponge. When this is light add a heaping tablespoonful each of salt and sugar, then work in flour to make a smooth, satiny dough. Let this rise again, roll to half an inch in thickness, cut in biscuit, butter each one on top and place on it another biscuit. Crowd them slightly in the pan to prevent spreading, and brush the tops with a bit of melted butter. They will rise very quickly the last time, and should be baked like any other roll.

POET AND THE POPE.

I saw his face today; he looks a chief Who fears not human rage, nor human guile; Upon his cheeks the twilight of a grief, But in that grief the starlight of a smile. They are the homes where tears of sorrow dwell; A low voice—strangely sweet—whose very tone Tell how these lips speak oft with God alone. I kissed his hand, I fain would kiss his feet; "No, no," he said; and then, in accents sweet, His blessing fell upon my bended head. He bade me rise; a few more words he said, Then took me by the hand—the while he smiled— And, going, whispered: "Pray for me, my child."

SOCIETY.

Charles Hines and wife spent Thanksgiving with friends in Cincinnati.

Miss Edith Newman left Wednesday to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives in Bardonia.

Mrs. Thomas P. Rogers arrived Tuesday from Frankfort to spend two weeks with relatives in this city.

Miss Rose Kavanaugh spent Thanksgiving with her sister Mrs. B. P. Mulloy, on the Paoli Pike, near New Albany.

Mrs. William Murphy, of Stanford, was here to spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Alexander Dudderar, 411 Twenty-sixth street.

Misses Mamie and Jennie McElroy, who were here to spend Thanksgiving week with relatives, have returned to their home at Lebanon.

James J. Shelley arrived the first of the week from Purdue University, to spend Thanksgiving with his mother, Mrs. Blanche Shelley.

Miss Nora Shaugnessy entertained a number of friends Thursday evening with a lunch party at her home on Twenty-eighth street.

Meta and Frank McCann, children of Mr. and Mrs. J. McCann, who have suffered a severe illness at their home in Portland, are now convalescent.

Patrolman John McCue, one of the most reliable men on the local police force, is taking his ten days' vacation and having a good time among his friends.

Michael Moran, who was called to New Albany by the illness and death of his mother, has returned to Bessemer, Ala., where he holds a fine position with a railroad company.

Mrs. E. J. Hackett, who underwent a successful operation at St. Edward's Hospital in New Albany, has been removed to her home, 702 East Elm street, where she is progressing favorably toward complete recovery.

There was a large gathering of friends Thanksgiving day at the home of Martin Joyce on Oldham street, who came to extend congratulations to the happy parents on the arrival of a handsome little daughter.

Mrs. John Burke, of Lexington, arrived the first of the week to attend her mother's birthday anniversary, and also to be present at the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. G. Earl.

St. Louis Bertrand's church was the scene of a swell wedding Wednesday when Miss Katie Tierney became the wife of Timothy Downey. The contracting parties are well known and popular and have the best wishes of a large coterie of friends.

Joe Bauer, for the past seven years a deputy under Jailer Pfanz and one of the most popular men about the county jail, is dangerously ill of typhoid fever at his home at Hike's Point. He was stricken last Sunday and at last reports much apprehension was manifested by his physicians and relatives.

The marriage of Miss Mary Naufinger and Edward Montgomery was solemnized Thanksgiving afternoon at St. Louis Bertrand's church, a large number of friends and well-wishers witnessing the ceremony, and bestowing congratulations. Both are well known and popular, the groom being connected with the Commonwealth Insurance Company.

On Thanksgiving day Miss Etta Martina and Louis B. Dugan were married at St. Louis Bertrand's church. The bride is one of Limerick's most charming girls and Mr. Dugan is a rising young business man, and a member of the Hibernians. The many friends assembled at the church to witness the ceremonies is evidence of the popularity of the happy young couple.

The marriage of Miss Anna Klosser and Edward Montgomery was solemnized Thursday morning with a nuptial mass at St. Anthony's church, attended by a large number of friends and relatives. The bride is one of the loveliest young women in the West End and a great favorite, and the lucky groom is a popular employee of Hubbs Bros. The best wishes of many will follow them into their new life.

One of the interesting weddings of the week was that of the Weber-Mathison nuptials at St. Cecilia's church Thanksgiving afternoon. The bride was Miss Francis Weber, a charming and accomplished young woman, and the bridegroom was Thomas Mathison, a well known and popular resident of the West End. The Rev. J. F. Brady performed the marriage ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of friends of the contracting parties, who attended the reception that followed at the home of the bride.

A wedding of interest in West End circles took place at the Church of

Our Lady, Thirty-fifth street and Rudd avenue, Wednesday night, when Miss Mary Mansfield and Nathan Morgan were united in marriage. Miss Laura Lockhart was bridesmaid and Joseph Schaefer was best man. Miss Mansfield is the popular daughter of John Mansfield, a pioneer Hibernian of this city, and the groom is a well known stone mason. A reception was held at the home of the bride's father, and the newly married couple went to housekeeping at once.

A delightful surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Phil Ackerman, Jr., at their residence, 2521 West Walnut street, in celebration of the anniversary of their fifth year of married bliss. The evening was indeed a happy one for the guests, and was crowned with a most bounteous supper at midnight. Those present were Misses Lillie Herbold, Mayne Kieley, Messrs. John Hubbuck and Will Ulmer, Messrs. and Mesdames Phil Ackerman, John B. Ratterman, John Duttlinger, Will Hilleicher, Thomas J. Cody and Frank Ratterman. All joined in wishing the worthy couple many happy returns of the anniversary.

The marriage of Miss Winnie Hennessy and John J. Barry was quietly solemnized at St. John's church at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. Miss Abbie Hennessy, the bride's sister, and Dr. J. T. Chawke were the only attendants. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for a ten days' stay in New York. The bride is a daughter of Winnie and the late John Hennessy and is one of Louisville's prettiest and most popular girls. Mr. Barry is connected with the management of this paper and is a prominent member of the K. C. and Hibernians. Both Mr. and Mrs. Barry have a host of friends who wish them unalloyed bliss on their journey through life.

Miss Catherine Lancaster entertained a number of friends with euchre Thanksgiving eve at her home on Sixth street. After the award of favors to Misses Ella May Pitt, Marie Maloney and Florence Barrett and Messrs. Richard Herrmann and Edwin O'Bryan the guests were treated to refreshments. The rest of the evening was devoted to vocal and instrumental selections and dancing. Those present were Misses Mary Maloney, Louise Lacher, Florence Barrett, Lucille Shanley, Marie O'Bryan, Catherine Lancaster, Sue Finn, Marie Reilly, Marie Baker, Frances Dowling, Ella May Pitt; Messrs. Richard Herrmann, Philip O'Bryan, Al O'Connor, Leo Schulten, Lawrence Kern, John Ryan, Edwin O'Bryan, August Schweirs, Walter Higgins.

OUSTED.

The Supreme Court Decides Against the Aglipayano Sect.

An important decision rendered last Saturday by the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands ousts the Aglipayanos and the municipality of Iagony from possession of the parish edifices there in favor of the Catholic church. The decision establishes a most important precedent, as it affects suits now pending for possession of about fifty churches seized by the Aglipayanos. Iagony is a town of 8,500 inhabitants in the province of Camarines, Luzon, where the Aglipayano sect was founded by Aglipay, a Spanish friar who had for some time quite a following there and wielded considerable power.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

The most important business at the meeting of Mackin Council Tuesday night was the nomination of officers. Next Tuesday night the annual election will take place, when Ben Sand will be the unanimous choice to succeed Charles Raidy as President. This year there are no contests, and therefore the election will be a quiet one. After much persuasion Secretaries Frank Adams and Frank Lanahan consented to accept the offices now held by them for another year, but the other officers felt they were entitled to a rest and should give way to others and therefore would not stand for nomination.

BRING SAD NEWS.

Letters just received in this city bring the sad news of the death of John O'Leary, aged eighty-five, at Kanturk, County Cork, Ireland. He was a staunch Nationalist and was prominent in Irish affairs during the Land League agitation years ago. The deceased leaves three daughters who live in this city. They are Mrs. Kate Baldwin, 709 Twenty-fourth street; Mrs. Thomas Hines, 1623 Twenty-third street, and Mrs. Thomas Glenn, Eighteenth and Bank. There also survive him here thirteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild, Mary Katherine McQuiese.

SUFFERS RELAPSE.

Chief of Detectives, Thomas Maher, who left St. Anthony's Hospital some weeks ago to take charge of the Etley murder case, has suffered a relapse, due to overwork and anxiety, and was compelled to return to the hospital Tuesday. For some time past Capt. Maher's health has not been the best, and his friends will now insist that he rest until he is entirely well. His illness is partly due to stomach and rheumatic troubles, which will give way if he only remains for proper treatment.

WEATHER AND WASHING.

A handful of salt in the last rinsing water greatly simplifies the hanging out of clothes in freezing weather. As salt prevents water from freezing at the usual temperature, clothes thus treated can not only be hung on the line before they freeze, but if the sun is shining on them they will partially dry before doing so, a circumstance which prevents much wear and tear. The laundress ought to wear white wool gloves when hanging out clothes in winter.

FRANKFORT.

Thanksgiving Week Happenings in Church and Social Circles.

The religious event of the week in Frankfort Catholic circles was the Forty Hours devotions that began at the high mass Tuesday and continued until Thanksgiving morning. Father Thomas Major conducted the services and was assisted by several visiting priests.

Thanksgiving eve Lambert Young Council entertained the ladies who so admirably assisted the members in entertaining the Ninth Grand Council of the Young Men's Institute that met in the Capital City last August. Cards were played from 8 to 10 o'clock, when all were invited to partake of a bounteous supper, after which there was dancing until 1:30. The full Frankfort orchestra furnished the music.

Sister Mary Conrad left last week for Louisville to spend a month recuperating from her hard and exhaustive labors in the Good Shepherd parochial school.

MOURN HIS DEATH.

Patrick Beatty, aged sixty years, died Wednesday morning at his home on East College street, after a short illness of kidney trouble. Though in delicate health for some time he was able to be about, and it was not until two weeks ago that he was confined to his bed. The deceased was a native of Ireland, but most of his life had been spent in Louisville, where he enjoyed a wide acquaintance and was highly respected. Besides his wife he leaves three sons, William, John and Martin Beatty, and four daughters, Misses Kate, Agnes and Julia Beatty and Mrs. E. R. Andler, of Sedalia, Mo. Mr. Beatty was a member of the Catholic Knights of America, and that order was largely represented at the funeral Friday morning at St. Mary Magdalene's church, where the solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Father William Gausepohl.

NEWPORT.

Lafayette Council, Y. M. I., of Newport, celebrated its fifteenth anniversary on Thursday last week with a banquet at the Altamont Hotel in the Fort Thomas Highlands. A large proportion of the members attended and the affair was voted a pleasing success. The council was honored by the presence of the Right Rev. C. P. Maes, Bishop of Covington, who responded to the toast, "The Church and Men." Judge John B. Reed was toastmaster and responses were made by Thomas Healy, Dr. Joseph A. Reardon, Judge Albert S. Berry, Hon. William Burkam, Hon. John W. Heuser, Gerald J. Conolly and Arthur Carius.

GETTING WELL.

Councilman Michael J. Reichert, who was hurt in an elevator accident last week at the plant of the Kentucky Wagon Company, is slowly improving at his home, and it is thought will be able to be out by tomorrow. Col. Reichert was riding on the elevator and in some manner was thrown off, sustaining cuts and bruises on both legs. He has many friends throughout the city who will be glad to hear that his injuries are not of a serious nature.

CHICKEN POTPIE DINNER.

Mrs. M. A. Myers, of the Sacred Heart parish, will have charge of the dining room at Liederkranz Hall next Monday, and assisted by ladies from all the congregations will serve an old-fashioned Kentucky chicken dinner for the patrons of the Sisters' bazaar. The ladies expect to make this the record day of the bazaar, and in order to accommodate all the dinner will be ready at 11 o'clock.

FORTY HOURS.

The forty hours adoration will begin at the Cathedral tomorrow morning at the high mass and continue until Tuesday. This is one of the most beautiful and solemn ceremonies of the church, and when held at the Cathedral there is always an immense congregation at all the services.

WILL SAVE FOOT.

Thomas Carroll, who several weeks ago sustained serious injuries to his foot while working in the L. & N. shops, this week submitted to x-ray examination, and the physicians say the injured member will be saved, though it will be several weeks before Mr. Carroll can have its full use again.

CONVALESCING.

The five children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dolan, of 2127 Portland avenue, who have been ill with scarlet fever, are now convalescing at their home. For several weeks their condition was precarious and fears were entertained for their recovery. They have now passed the critical stage and parents and friends feel greatly relieved over the changed condition of the little sufferers.

FEDERATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Louisville Federation of Catholic Societies will be held next Thursday night at the Catholic Woman's Club on Walnut street. All who can should attend, as it will be necessary to take final action upon questions that have been pending for some time.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving day was observed in a suitable manner by the Catholics of this city. In all the churches there were masses of thanksgiving, where there was union in prayer and thanks for the blessings bestowed upon the State and nation during the past year.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest

Members Here and Elsewhere.

Lexington Council postponed the initiation that was to have taken place last Sunday until the middle part of this month.

The first of the series of "forty-five" contests between the two councils of Syracuse were played Monday night. The games are expected to prove exciting and attract throngs to the club rooms.

Louisville Council held a largely attended and most enjoyable reception Friday night at the Woman's Club on Fourth avenue. It was given for the entertainment of the younger members and their lady friends.

Messrs. J. P. Hanly and Charles Whitehead represented Frankfort and assisted in the initiation of sixty-five members at Cincinnati last Sunday. There were several hundred visiting knights in attendance at the initiation and banquet which followed at the Barrett House.

The lecture course which for several years has attracted great attention to Damen Council, and which is said to be the only successful one held in Chicago, will begin Monday night, when Rev. L. J. Vaughn will have "Lights That Fail" for his subject. Rev. Francis Kelley follows in February with his great "Dream of Equality," and Frederick Warde, the tragedian, will close the course April 10.

Philadelphia Council's banquet at the Hotel Majestic last Monday was attended by 500, the most prominent men in the order, as well as the New York degree corps and many church dignitaries being among the invited guests. Fifty leading members arranged for the affair, which was the most successful function ever held in Philadelphia. The banquet was a celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Council, which was the first organized in Pennsylvania.

WIVES KEEP YOUNG.

A certain amount of social life is absolutely essential to all of us, to the old as well as to the young. A woman never grows so old that she ceases to enjoy the company of others, and generally the older she grows the more she enjoys it. It is always a pity to see a man fall into a state which he explains by saying, "Oh, we are getting old and don't care for so much variety in our lives." In the pure selfishness of his soul he always speaks of "us" and "we," as if it naturally follows that because he is getting antiquated his wife must keep pace with him in his decline. It is more credit to a husband to keep his wife young than to make her grow old. His actions and his habits necessarily influence those of his wife. Let him keep in touch with the world, and both he and his wife will be the better and his younger for it.
